Can not find the "streaming" option on the menu. Can not turn on the "streaming" option. Can not control the volume of the music. The volume is controlled by the iPhone or iPod Touch that is connected to the iPad. The "streaming" does not work. The audio is cut off when the phone is disconnected. Pretty cool , 04.01.2013 Pretty cool Like how simple it is to broadcast your music. The reason it doesnt have 5 stars is that the problem with streaming my music via the app is that it stops when I disconnect the iPod or iPhone. Streaming my music over the internet works flawlessly. I've used other apps and this was the only one that let me get it to work with no error. So I still think its a good app. But in the future when I use it again I will download the app and try to stream it like i would over the internet and see if I can get it to work. MAJOR BUG: I have a MacBook Pro. When I start the stream, the player opens at full volume. There is no way to reduce the volume. In fact, there is no sound, so the player is just sitting there, frozen and silent. Love it!!! , 10.28.2012 Love it!!! This app is amazing. Not only is it quick and simple to set up, the variety of ways to share your music is a lot of fun. I have been using it for about a year now and have no complaints. An awesome app! , 12.19.2012 An awesome app! Analysts at the Milken Institute said the results of their annual global competitiveness study shows that Canada has slipped to sixth place, down from fifth last year. In 2013, Canada was ranked fifth, just behind Germany, the U.S., Japan, China and France. However, not all Canadian provinces scored well. Alberta was ranked 27th out of the 28 countries surveyed. In fact, the only provinces ranked better were those in Western Europe, including France, the U.K. and Sweden. Three of Canada's Western provinces — British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Ontario — ranked 24th, 25th and 26th respectively. That was a departure from a year earlier, when they ranked first, second and third respectively. Newfoundland and Labrador ranked last in the survey, which ranks the world's most competitive economies and the performance of their people. The ranking is part of an annual report called the Competitiveness Report 2014, produced by the Milken Institute. The study analyzed factors including the "knowledge-based" workforce, educational systems, innovation and competitiveness, and the "creativity and quality of life" of residents. In a press release about the report, the institute's president, John L. Thornton, said the report shows that Canadians have become significantly more entrepreneurial, and that the country's innovation base has improved. The report also showed that a significant number of Canadians are working in foreign-owned multinational companies, Thornton added. "And that means Canada is learning from the competitive advantages of its top export sectors. For example, mining, technology and health care are home-grown Canadian strengths, which are central to the success of our economic development and prosperity," he said.

I have tried to scrape it using python's mechanize library but it takes too long (24 hours on a 2.9GHz machine) for this amount of data. I'm still looking at mechanize for other methods but I thought there might be some better and simpler ways to do this. I have tried to use some web scrapers (e
