Parallel is a 2D puzzle-platformer for two players! Explore both players' levels at the same time on two separated screens. It's a first person perspective platformer in which you must cooperate to get to the exit. Even if you are on opposite boards and can't see your friend. You have to find a way to communicate to unlock your exit and progress through the board. We have a unique approach to puzzles and characters: We don't believe in the complexity of our puzzles: our goal is to make you sweat but the puzzles are well balanced and original. We have different objectives for each player : fill up a score meter or unlock a door. Each player has a primary objective: to fill his bar with points. To do this, we reuse objects and mechanisms that are well known in the puzzle genre: * Boxes * Pressure plates * Gravity * Ladders * Light effects * Dynamite... And many others, we can't reveal all of them. You can also play by yourself, especially in the difficulty settings! We also have a novel gameplay mechanic: your partner is right next to you! At any time, you can press the LOCK button to go into the "CUSTOMIZATION" view of the character, Each of your characters includes 5 body parts (head, hair, hands, clothes & shoes) that you can customise : color and size of each body part. Our approach is two-fold: On one hand, we also hope that you find these personalization options useful to customize your character. But you can also use these parts to interact with the environment, unlocking keys, some objects or lights. The more you use your character's parts, the more interactions and abilities you'll get. You can not see your friend's character. However, his body parts are a perfect distraction for finding clues and information on your own screen! Learn what you can do and play your level safely, you can find many hints and continue to progress with your partner's character that is right next to you! So go ahead, open up your board and start discovering it! Hints & guides will be provided on the game's website for players who want to become more independent and earn extra

What's new in The Host:

Irked but not very worried, Norman prepared to eat today's lunch. As he ate, he contemplated his next move. Apparently the gnome was following him, which wasn't something he'd expect from either Helen or Mordred. He remembered recently receiving a letter from a mortal woman named Jillia, who in her letter asked to hide out while she investigated the elf hunters he'd warned about. The gnome was stalking him to ensure he actually followed through with the warnings. This wouldn't be at all normal behavior. Both Mordred and Helen were normally too lazy to even get up and prepare for a search. If this gnome was acting alone, there was no need for Norman to take immediate action. If, however, he was being led by someone, then it was vital for him to find out who and why. Today was the 6th of July. Earlier, today, before packing for Barrow Hill, he'd listened as the gnome explained that they'd chosen this area by themselves, without assistance or aid from anyone else. "Someday," the gnome promised, "the enemies of the Barrow Hill Clan will fall to our blades, and will not rise again. It is our duty to slay them, for if they fall and find no more stands in their path, the world will be safer. Our clan will inherit everything." Norman was a little shocked to find the gnome had been following him for three days now. Norman could almost guarantee they'd been following him from the moment he arrived. There wasn't a village, town, or city nearby that the gnome could've chosen for shelter on the way to Barrow Hill. Somehow, knowing the gnome was following him led Norman to the conclusion that the gnome needed him. Today should've been an ordinary day, but Norman left the village early, carrying only a knife and a camp axe. He set his sights for Barrow Hill, and soon arrived. The gnome had warned him to be cautious, but as close to a town as they were, it had seemed like a good stopping point to wait for help. So here he was, no help nor any backup, realizing it could be a trap, or it could be Mordred and Helen behind him, colluding together to catch him. Although he'd chosen a good looking hilltop for himself, his immediate goal was to enter the Barrow Hill clan and find out where Jillia was. At first he thought

You play Red, an average man who, one day, decides to travel back in time in a desperate attempt to find the answers to life's greatest mysteries... rediscovering our past and self-discovering our future. Red arrives in different eras with many new and interesting discoveries. But something evil is already working in the future... even though Red doesn't know this. Explore your surroundings in 29 different environments! When you arrive in the era of your choice, you will be able to explore your surroundings freely and without restrictions. You'll even find clues to help you understand what is happening in the future. Can Red save his time in the future before the bad guys arrive and destroy everything? A bit hard since the game is set in different time periods and there are markers to find throughout the eras. However, this game is still fun. I was able to find everything in a couple of goes when I was playing with my friend on a turn-based system and so it was easy to explore the eras since you don't have to look for everything, you just roam around all the places. Just make sure you are nice and familiar with where everything is since you can't always fly back. And keep in mind that you can only go back to a specific time period once per game. This game is just a small demo that showcases the future and how the different periods of time interact. The full game is being fully developed and has only been showcased in the demo to date. You will be able to unlock the other eras on your own which will include ancient Egypt, Avalon, the Stone Age, Scythia, and Battle. Once you have the full game, you can unlock the first trial levels but they aren't the actual trial levels as those aren't yet released. Get ready to fly through time... The game is still being developed and it will have full levels, game play modes, and upgrades. The full game will be released in 2018 for PC, Mac, Linux, Android, iOS, and consoles. For now, we are glad to show you all the fun stuff. Also, the game is set in a 3D environment so it will be very interesting to see if it can be a successful game on consoles. I played this on Android and I swear it's better on PC and Mac because if you don't have a keyboard and a mouse
