“We worked closely with a team of dedicated gamers and experts to develop this technology,” stated Eiji Aonuma, Game Director. “Players will be immersed in a unique, flowing and physical game. It’s something like being able to share their emotions and play through their teammates.” “FIFA 22 uses real-world player motion data, not just high-resolution images and animation,” said Sam Bick, Director of Player Performance at EA SPORTS. “We believe that emulating real-life speeds, accelerations and movements is the key to creating the most authentic and enjoyable gameplay experience. We’ve been striving to achieve this with our technology across all our FIFA franchises for the past eight years and we’re excited to be able to showcase this incredible new gameplay for the first time ever.” Technological innovation: FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion Technology,” which uses motion capture data collected from actual real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. Players will be immersed in a unique, flowing and physical game. It’s something like being able to share their emotions and play through their teammates. The innovation was achieved by a dedicated and highly skilled team who started their work in the FIFA Customisation Studio by developing the new ‘Next Level’ customisable ball technology – a fundamental and defining feature of FIFA 22. This fully customisable ball interacts with the field surface intelligently and allows players to create their own ball-striking experiences on the pitch. Improved ball controls – Players and teams can create custom footwork patterns, including real-life player footwork and movements, using the new “spatial control” control system. In addition, players can now further fine-tune ball movement with “Ball Handling” drills. Creating unique styles – Footwork drills have been improved to allow players to create their own footwork patterns, applying their desired forms and movements. Individual players can now make faster, more agile decisions while providing a greater degree of personalisation to their game. Enhanced ball control – A new “spatial control” system provides greater ball control. Players can now create their own footwork patterns, including real-life player footwork and movements, with greater accuracy. Elite finishing – Players and teams are now able to apply their own finishing skills to create custom goalsc

FIFA is the world’s leading sports gaming franchise and a vital part of the EA SPORTS portfolio. It puts you in control of your very own team, and features football from more than 200 countries around the world, including Mexico, Germany, the USA and England. Each year, fans from every corner of the globe come together in EA SPORTS FIFA to play, compete, and make the world’s greatest game even better. You take the role of a football superstar, putting your skills to the test as you lead your team to the FIFA World Cup™ – the ultimate test of your ability to achieve greatness. Why release a new FIFA game now? 2018 is a truly historic year for football. FIFA debuted in Japan in 1992, and now more than one billion people play the game each year. The fans that make up the FIFA community are the lifeblood of the game, and this year, we’re giving them more of what they want – incredible football, an amazing game and a deeper connection with the football world. We also want to celebrate the spirit of 2018, and share some of our favorite moments from this year’s FIFA tournaments with our fans around the world. FIFA Ultimate Team is an ever-evolving experience, and now there’s more to bring that evolution to life. This year, we’re making the new Connected Careers feature the core of our partnership with EA SPORTS FIFA Development. This new partnership is going to allow us to bring more experiences to life through the power of game technology, and expand our efforts around the world to build the FIFA World Cup into more than a game. We’re also adding new features and content to connect a deeper relationship between EA SPORTS FIFA and its players, and crafting new narratives throughout every mode to celebrate the passion and emotion of football. It’s only the start of the journey, so the FIFA community can expect to hear more from us in the coming months. We’re confident that there’s more to come in 2018. How will the game handle connectivity? We’re investing a lot of energy and resources into a series of new features that connect EA SPORTS FIFA and the FIFA community around the world. The Connected Careers feature is the heart of this partnership, giving our fans a deeper relationship with the game they love. On the technology side, we’re working on connection that bc9d6d6daa

What's new:

- New playable national teams - embrace the world of footballing fashion and look good doing it with 47 new national team kits, as well as more than 300 new accessories.
- The short passing game - take new shots, dribble more, pass quicker, and manipulate your teammates better with 13 all-new short passes. Short passes can be paired with the dribble pass or cross to enhance your attacking ability, or uncork a long-range shot with a new quick shot button.
- New interactive third-person visuals - step inside the pitch and feel the action from a new third-person camera perspective. See your match like never before.
- For the next generation, Frostbite delivers a new set of interactive visuals powered by EA SPORTS™ Frostbite™. With new playable characters, improved lighting and shading, attention to detail, and the same depth of life in motion you've come to expect from a FIFA title, never has the depth of the European Cup felt so alive in franchise history - on and off the pitch. Frostbite is also the engine behind our new lighting technologies using advanced motion capture, which connects the look of human movement to every player and character on the pitch.
- New online Off-the-ball AI - Play to your strengths and exploit your opponent's weaknesses as the most reactive defence in franchise history comes to FIFA 22. Online AI on this level expects you to respond differently, and makes risky moves that challenge you. And throughout the campaign, online Off-the-ball AI gets progressively more tactical as AI Teams adjust and react to your builds - never before has FIFA Online been so responsive.
- First person player model - put the player right in the middle of the action with FIFA's first-person look and true-to-life body awareness. No longer will you be distracted by exaggerated feet and hands. See the player's face to be sensitive to the triggers that matter most in his life - drives, dribbles, crosses, headers, and more. Take every chance you get to show off your arcade skills or use the space and time to launch aerial assaults or set-ups, all with absolute fidelity in the number one fans' favorite FUT mode.
- Authentic winter and spring seasons - Celebrate the official launch of the new FUT Seasons™, and enjoy the snowy superiority of the five-a

FIFA is the best-selling, most popular sports video game franchise in the world. FIFA represents a massively complex sport but its gameplay is designed to be as accessible and approachable as possible, making it fun and accessible for all. FIFA is available for every platform and is played by millions of people around the globe each year, making it the most popular sports game of all time. The powerful engine inside FIFA creates a fully-immersive soccer universe with over 50 officially licensed clubs and stadiums, and 6 official leagues: England's premier league, Spain's La Liga, Germany's Bundesliga, the Italian Serie A, France's Ligue 1, and the Spanish Segunda División. Each game is divided into realistic gameplay and presentation layers. The gameplay layer is set in a 3D, physics-based engine where players, teams, and teammates can affect the game using the same physical skills, attributes, and tactics as they would in real-life. Players influence the game's physics through bounding, tackling and heading, but also through running, shooting, and passing. They can drive directly at opponents, attempt long range shots, or loft a cross into the box to strike teammates on the run. FIFA has a new gameplay engine, FIFA World Football, and on the surface it looks vastly different from previous versions of the game. However, it's deeply rooted in the previous generation's engine, using gameplay cues such as bounding, tackling and head contact to blend with FIFA 22. The gameplay layer is also smarter, with real-life tactics influencing key aspects of the game's physics, strategy and timing. Players can defend counterattacks, create overloads in midfield, and go directly at attackers. In FIFA World Football, technology is put in the service of gameplay. When players dive, they are able to slip in-between the defender and the ball. When defenders are covered by three or more attackers, they will be 'shielded'. When an attacker collects the ball from a rebound, they will control what happens and where they go with a new, physics-based "Heimlich Maneuver", which allows them to change direction on the fly as they deflect the ball. FIFA World Football is informed by many of the core game design philosophies from previous iterations of FIFA, with a strong focus on player and
